Fair great despite drought conditions

Outstanding quilt show wows the crowd

Entries in some sections may have been down due to the drought, but overall, Elk Point Agricultural Fair was a huge success, with a good crowd coming to admire the entries on Sunday afternoon.

A massive and very impressive quilt show highlighted the Fair, with a total of 67 painstakingly pieced examples of this fabric artistry on display. A number vintage quilts were included, one a "Flying Geese" pattern crafted by Martha Greenfield, great-aunt of Violet McFadyen, 160 years ago.

Several quilts were made in the 1920s and 30s, including three by Marie Hansen, one of these a "Trip Around the World" which from a distance has a lacy appearance, and one a "Postage Stamp" pattern made up of thousands of tiny squares, both entirely sewn by hand.

From Lizzy Garner's ornate velvet crazy quilt, 1928 vintage, through decades of hand-and liquid-embroidered designs, scraps of recycled clothing and leftover Fortrel, to today's fringed flannel "Rag Time" quilts and Iryne Buck's skillfully detailed "Ohio Star", the display was a virtual timeline of this popular art form.

The top two prize winners in this year's Bench Fair came all the way from Cold Lake with a van virtually stuffed with entries.

Lillian Balazs won the Baking section prize donated by Elk Point Co-op, the Cut Flowers section sponsored by ATB Financial and the House Plants section sponsored by Meadowview Greenhouses on her way to the Grand Aggregate win of a cash prize from Anadarko Canada and a plaque from CJ Petroleum. Runner-up Ina Gillespie, also of Cold Lake, won the Canning section prize from the Empress Restaurant on her way to second prize in the Grand Aggregate, sponsored by Petrovera.

Third overall for the Golden Loaf Bakery award in the Grand Aggregate was junior entrant Alyssa Beardy, who won the junior sections in Arts, Crafts and Hobbies and Sewing.

Laverne Wilson was also a multiple winner, taking the Grains and Hay award sponsored by Terry Wozniak Bulk Sales and the Fresh Fruits section award sponsored by Woody's Trophy and Gifts.

Verona Lea Flanders, who is stepping down as Fair Board chair, won the Elk Point Insurance and Realty award in Arts, Crafts and Hobbies, where entries were up from 15 to 84 in the adult section.

Another section which saw a good increase was Creative Writing, up from 24 entries to 45, where Irene Melin won the Elk Point Review award in the adult division.

Kim Beardy won the adult Sewing section, sponsored by TD Canada Trust, while Angelina Christenson won the Apple Drugs prize in the Knitting, Crochet and Weaving section.

Grace Pinder was the Senior Fair winner, with a prize donated by Irene Magnusson.

Kim Beardy and Lesia Sherwin tied for top honors in the Photography section, sponsored by Home Town Grocers.

Best-seller for Billie Milholland

By Ron Onusko
Review Contributor

Billie Milholland, formerly of Elk Point and now of Edmonton, has written a book that reached the number two position of top-selling books in Edmonton, according to the August 4 Edmonton Journal.

A new and dramatically formatted book about an old, historic and familiar river is the North Saskatchewan River Guide: Mountain to Prairie - a Living Landscape. Billie has portioned the entire length of the river, from its headwaters at the Saskatchewan Glacier to the point where it joins the mighty South Saskatchewan, into 27 reaches, each with a separate fold-out map and each portion full of historic, environmental, cultural and recreational detail.

For anyone who canoes, walks and visits the river, the guide is a valuable information source. For Billie, who had the North Saskatchewan River always in her background, this writing project for the North Saskatchewan Watershed Alliance was a labour of love. She began by taking a semester off from college, but ended up staying a full year away from her studies to complete the book.

BILLIE MILHOLLAND was a special guest at the Elk Point Fair on Sunday, and autographed numerous copies of her North Saskatchewan River Guide for eager purchasers. Lyn Young (right) was happy to add the volume to her library.

The Watershed Alliance is a non-profit society whose purpose is to protect and improve water quality and ecosystem functioning in the North Saskatchewan River watershed within Alberta. As Billie states in her introduction, "It is no secret that water is the lifeblood of the land. Nor is it surprising that fresh water on our planet is a commodity under great pressure."

In Elk Point, the North Saskatchewan is our water source and we cannot do without it.

"I've had discussions with the health minister and the premier and my position is very clear."

Health and Wellness Minister Gary Mar rejected the LRHA's original business plan that proposed running a $5.7 million deficit. The health minister asked the LRHA to resubmit a budget that would balance by 2003-2004 fiscal year and appointed consultant Jim Saunders to help decide where to make necessary cuts.

The LRHA budget resubmitted on July 31 did not come close to meeting the minister's expectations. It proposes to run a deficit for the next three years and balance the books in the fourth.

The LRHA is counting on residents making a greater effort to stay in the area for care, which keeps health funding in the area. The LRHA hopes improving the import/export ratio will accomplish its budget-balancing act.

Reassessing the funding formula and controlling the import/export ratios are two keys Danyluk points to as well.

"When we're eliminating services, all it does is cause more exports (people leaving for care)," says Danyluk. "And the more exports you have the less funding you have. The less funding you have the more cuts you're making."

"We have the infrastructure and expertise to accommodate services in the rural areas."

Danyluk acknowledges health funding is not only important to services, but to the economic structure and well being of rural communities generally.

"Health is important to everybody."

MLA Ray Danyluk supports LRHA 'all the way'

By Todd MacKay
Staff Writer

Despite the health authority's submission of another deficit budget, local Conservative MLA Ray Danyluk continues to give unwavering support.

"All the way," says Danyluk when asked how far his support for the Lakeland Regional Health Authority (LRHA) goes. "All they're asking for is to bring forward a deficit budget that can be reconciled with just a couple of extra years."

Fair displays great despite the challenge by drought

Don Brooker won the Cal's Home Hardware award in the drought-plagued Vegetables section, where entries were down from 90 entries last year to 44 this year.

The youngest Fair entrants put forth a tremendous effort. Brett Lindquist won the Junior Baking and tied with sister Kelsey, winner of the Danin Office Supplies award for Junior Fair, for the win in Junior Vegetables.

Leigha Bishop, granddaughter of Grand Aggregate award winner Lillian Balazs, won the Junior Cut Flowers honors.

Chuckwagon roundup

Shane Nolin won the Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association meet in Saskatoon this past weekend, winning top day money on the first night and clocking the fastest run of the meet on Day 2.

Grant Preece finished second in the meet, a full second behind Nolin, while Ray Mitsuing was third and Doug Irvine, in his best showing of the year, finished fourth. CPCA season leader Brian Laboucane was fifth overall.

The CPCA top 10 after Saskatoon are, from first to tenth place, Brian Laboucane, Wayne Knight, Larry McEwen, Layne McGillivray, Jim Knight, Ross Knight, Shane Nolin, Grant Preece, Leo Tournier, Luke Tournier. Bert Croteau sits 13th while Doug Irvine is in 15th spot overall as they head to the season finals in Lloydminster, Thursday through Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

WPCA

The WPCA's top 10 following the Battle of the North in Dawson Creek are, from first to tenth: Tyler Helmig, Norm Cuthbertson, Rick Fraser, Dawson Creek show winner Hugh Sinclair, Reg Johnstone, Jason Glass, Kelly Sutherland, Grant Profit, Jerry Bremner and Kurt Bensmiller. Buddy Bensmiller is in 13th spot overall.

The WPCA World Championships go Friday through Sunday in Red Deer.

community NEWS*The Netherlands still grateful for their WWII liberationMedals go to Canadian servicemen who took part in long ago efforts*

Ralph Reimer was a single young serviceman back in the mid-1940s when he marched into war-torn Holland as part of Canada's liberation army. Now retired and the husband of a Dutch war bride, the father and grandfather is being recognized for his long-ago efforts.

Reimer is among the many World War II Canadian servicemen to receive a "Medal of Remembrance" from the Netherlands National Defense Committee.

AMONG HIS SOUVENIRS of long-ago overseas service, Elk Point senior Ralph Reimer proudly displays his Medal of Remembrance.

While a number of veterans received commemorative medals when they traveled to the Netherlands to celebrate the anniversary of the liberation, Reimer received his by mail, accompanied by a letter of commendation.

Lt.-Col. Leo van den Heuvel, Defense Attaché of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, wrote, "On the occasion of the 50th and 55th anniversary of the liberation of Holland, the Netherlands offered a 'Thank You Canada' anniversary medal to the veterans who came to Holland to celebrate this memorable occasion. To honor the equally important contribution of those veterans who were unable to attend the festivities in the Netherlands, the National Defense Committee has minted a medal called the 'Medal of Remembrance' in relation to the liberation of Holland." The medal, Lt.-Col. van den Heuvel said, is a "token of the appreciation and gratitude of the Dutch people for your wartime efforts."

Reimer and other Elk Point and district veterans applied to receive the medal after it was advertised in the Royal Canadian Legion magazine. He is the first recipient in the area.

New produce manager for the Elk Point Co-op

Elk Point Co-op recently welcomed a new addition to their staff. Rory Brady, originally from Vermilion, is the store's new Produce Manager.

Brady started working in the grocery business seven years ago and a year ago, got in touch with Federated Co-ops. Following a series of interviews, he began one-on-one training at Vermilion and Wainwright to learn the necessary skills for his new position. Co-op stores looking for department managers contact Federated Co-ops to list these positions, and Federated suggests appropriate positions once a trainee is ready to take over a managerial role.

Brady has been in Elk Point for three weeks, and is "starting to get settled into the job. Now I hope to get out and see more of the town." The recently modernized produce department at Elk Point Co-op is "smaller than I'm used to" but Brady feels he will soon adapt to his new environment.

The Elk Point Co-op invites you to stop by and welcome Rory Brady to the community.

RORY BRADY offers a great lineup of fresh produce for Co-op shoppers in Elk Point.

Three charged in cottage break-and-enter

On August 7, Elk Point RCMP responded to a complaint of Break and Enter of a cottage. St. Paul Identification Section along with the residents of Poplar Drive near Laurier Lake assisted in identifying possible suspects.

Three males were spoken to by Elk Point RCMP and eventually admitted to the break and enter of two cottages and vandalizing a parked travel trailer.

The three are currently charged with two counts of breaking and entering and one count of mischief under $5000.

The males cannot be identified under the Young Offenders Act.

Elk Point RCMP are continuing to investigate, as other cottages were entered in the week previous to the August 7 incident.

It takes dedication

If this year's Elk Point Fair had a key word, it would be "dedication."

Dedication on the part of the Fair Board is what gets this enormous project completed every year, from lining up sponsors and judges, to the tedious typing needed to prepare the fair books, to the grunt work of hauling in, setting up, taking down and storing away the tables and displays.

Dedication, present and past, is evident in the creation of each and every one of the 67 quilts which turned a barren ice arena into an awe-inspiring gallery of fabric art. Who, today, can even imagine piecing together all those miniscule patches without benefit of a sewing machine, and then turning around and quilting the whole thing by hand as well?

Dedication was also shown by all those who exhibited the results of their fields, yards and gardens this year. Without dedication, TLC and plenty of water, there would certainly have been no beautiful flowers, no surprisingly fine fruits and vegetables to bring to the fair in this year of discouraging drought.

Dedication, on the part of both organizers and exhibitors, has once again resulted in a fair that puts Elk Point in the forefront of bench shows in northeastern Alberta. Congratulations!

Speaking of words...

Have you ever wondered why we use certain words to name specific things in our English language? Let me give you a few examples from Isaac Asimov's Book of Facts.

Joseph Priestly is immortal in the history of chemistry as the discoverer of oxygen in 1774. Lost in that glory is the fact that he also discovered soda water and that he gave the name "rubber" to that soft, bouncy stuff because it could also be used to rub out pencil marks.

A book of maps is called an atlas because the innovative sixteenth century Flemish geographer Gerardus Mercator's book of maps detailing various portions of Europe sported on its cover a picture of the Greek titan Atlas holding the world on his shoulders - and his book became known as the atlas.

When Alfred Nobel's nitroglycerin factory blew up in 1864, killing his brother, the Swedish government refused to allow the factory to be rebuilt. Nobel, who had invented dynamite, came to be looked upon as a mad scientist viciously manufacturing destruction. He fought that reputation all his life, finally winning out posthumously with the establishment of the Nobel Prizes in his will.

from the FCSS desk

When, in 1891, Whitcomb L. Judson, a Chicago inventor, patented what would later become the zipper, he had in mind something to save people the trouble of buttoning and unbuttoning their shoes every day. He called his invention the "Clasp Locker and Unlocker for Shoes." Now aren't you glad that long name was changed to "zipper"?

A German inventor placed an engine on an aircraft in 1900 and flew it successfully - three years before the Wright Brothers. The inventor was Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, but the aircraft was not heavier than air. Von Zeppelin had invented the dirigible - the Zeppelin. Now you are probably asking, "what is a Zeppelin?" Well, it is the air balloons that can be steered. Instead of calling them "Zeppelin", most of us just call them hot-air balloons.

"Red tape," the rigid application of regulations and routine, resulting in delay in getting business done, got its name from the color of the tape that was commonly used to tie official papers. The term occurs as early as 1658.

Russia was so thankful for Edward Jenner's discovery of immunization in 1796 that the first child to be vaccinated there was named Vaccinov and educated at the expense of the nation. Now wasn't that great!

Here is the last example. Influenza was so named because the cause of the disease was supposedly the evil "influence" of the stars. This "influence" was believed also to be the cause of plagues and pestilences.

So there you go, a history of some of our English words. Enjoy using them, everyone!

Summer: enjoy it while it lasts

By Jennifer Flanders

Tourist Information Clerk

To a pessimist, the summer is half gone. To an optimist, there is still half the summer left. To a realist (that means most of us normal people), it's the beginning of August and the weather is weird.

This is my second season here at the Tourist Information Booth and it's shaping up to be a busier one than last season with over 175 people having stopped in already! That's including two guys who only spoke French (and so fast I could hardly pick up a word), two people from P.E.I., several from BC, many from across Alberta and Saskatchewan and all the nice local people who come in just to find out who the poor person is that's cooking away in the Tourist Booth. (Thanks again for the slushie, Coke is my favorite.) And just think, there's still the rest of August! We have plenty of maps and information left, so stop in and see me.

Here's hoping that everyone has a great rest-of-the-summer camping, traveling, mowing the lawn, etc. Enjoy!

oilmen's GOLF

Tiger better beware! Future oilman impressive in summer's tourneys

This coming weekend is the annual Elk Point Oilmen's Golf Tournament, when old friends can get together and pound a few balls on the course, along with pounding back a few cool ones and reminiscing about old times. It's a great tournament where everyone can play and have some fun, the first few flights are for the serious golfer, where everyone whispers, and keeps close track of the score, the last few flights are for hackers who only go out once a year to aerate the course, and use four letter words to keep score, everyone else falls into middle of the road, golfers who are trying to improve their game, but still have fun.

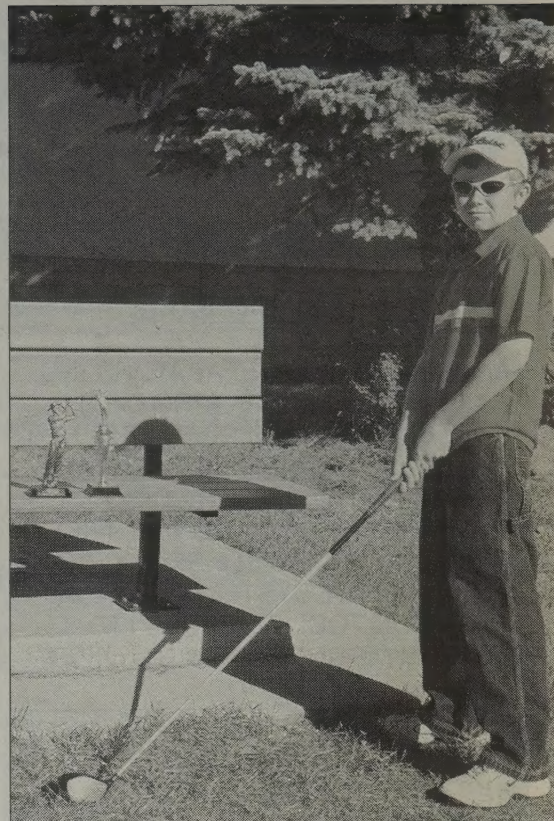

prise came for Jordan last week when he received a phone call from Jack McKinley from Consort inviting Jordan to play in the East Central Junior Golf Championship Tour Tournament starting tomorrow Aug. 14 and 15th.

Jordan had been noticed in the Vermilion tournament a couple of weeks ago, where he shot a 38 and 39, won his flight and came in second over all. Jordan started golfing three years ago and has enjoyed it ever since, entering tournaments last year, competing in Lloydminster and coming in second in his age category, then winning the Bonnyville and Vermilion tournament for his age category.

This year, he placed first in St. Paul for his age group, and won first place over all, then came in second in the Elk Point tournament, and last week in Bonnyville, well, he would rather not talk about it, but hey, even Tiger has had a bad day.

Jordan is almost 15, but only 5 feet tall and 90 lbs, but we all know he's going to grow someday, and get better and better at golfing. His dream is to someday receive a golf scholarship. Stalking a Tiger isn't easy, but this young man is on his trail. Good Luck Jordan, keep up the hard work and dedication!

FUTURE OILMEN'S TOURNEY CHAMPION? - Jordan Cousins looks like a real threat to the golfers who will compete in the Elk Point Oilmen's tournament a few years from now. Right now, he's hauling home the trophies from area Junior golf tournaments and honing his skills in preparation to win a future golf scholarship. Good luck in the East Central Junior Championship Tour tournament, Jordan!

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

Only two weeks left for Summer Reading Program!

By Carlen Mutch

Summer Reading Program Coordinator

Another week has passed here at the library and we have only two more weeks left in the summer reading program. This week we will be going on a field trip to Fort George and Buckingham House. This should be a nice change for everyone and I can't wait to see what they have planned for us.

On Tuesday with the younger kids we read some stories featuring Disney characters, then went outside to draw on the sidewalk with chalk. The library is becoming quite covered with drawings made by four-year-olds. And no, they didn't paint the front windows, I did. it might not look like it, but it is true. We then played a quick game of tag before coming in to make pirates out of toilet paper rolls.

Thursday saw my largest 'old' group ever. That's only 10 kids, though, so it was no big deal. We went outside to play a board game with a giant die that I made out of a box. The kids loved kicking it as hard as they could to roll. We then played a game of Frisbee golf, but this time the kids were allowed to throw as hard as they could. I only had to retrieve two Frisbees off the road, and two out of a tree. I also got hit in the head with a Frisbee, but that's a different story. For craft we made Semaphore flags, which are used to send out code. We then tried to code out words to each other, but that proved harder than expected.

Check out these!

We have a new book display here at the library. Cookbooks that feature summer cooking ideas are out to look at or check out. There are books on barbecuing, cooking and craft ideas that involve herbs, and lots of books on vegetables.

STORYTELLER DENISE MILLER was a big hit when she visited the library last Friday morning with entertaining stories and songs, beating out an accompaniment on her drum. An active storyteller for 15 years, Ms Miller is the president of T.A.L.E.S. Strathcona and a member of the Storytellers of Canada.

Eat dinner with your kids - set good nutrition patterns

The trend of grabbing what you can when you can get it for meals is associated with a poor nutritional profile among both adults and children. Patterns were similar for boys and girls. It is believed by many nutrition researchers that early nutritional patterns set the tone for habits during adult life.

Linda FOX
Registered Dietitian

A recent study that examined the nutritional quality of the diets of 16,000 children aged 9-14 years found that those who ate dinner more often with their families had better quality diets. About 17 per cent ate dinner with their families never or some days, 40 per cent on most days, and 43 per cent every day. As children got older, they were less likely to eat with their families.

Children who ate more often with their families were more likely to eat the five or more recommended servings of fruits and vegetables, and were less likely to eat fried foods away from home or drink carbonated beverages (pop). Dinner with family also meant better intake of several vitamins and minerals, with less intake of saturated and trans fat.

How do you measure up? Are your schedules too busy to eat together? With careful planning, mealtime can become more of a family affair. For more information contact Linda

Fox, RD at Elk Point Health Centre, 724-3847.

IN MEMORIAM

SMEREKA, Connie

Sept. 6, 1964-Aug. 10, 2001

In loving memory of Connie Smerka who passed away August 10, 2001.

In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again.

Sadly missed and forever remembered from your loving family.
